Those Long Skirts

OUR FAVORITE fashion commentators has aroused our interest. She tells us the war is over the question of shorter skirts has been fought and won by the shorts.

Personally we pay little attention to skirts, but faces do interest us greatly. It was the picture of a fashion expert appearing in her syndicated column which made us look the second time and then read what she said. We had not been aware that a skirt length had changed, nor that a war had been going on until this writer told us solemnly "longer skirts cover a multitude of sins."

We assumed the printer made an error and that an "h" had been omitted from the word "sins." The accompanying picture, however, showed plenty of "shin," and then we suspected that the word had been written "skin," of which there was yet quite a good deal exposed. Let's go ahead and clear up the question. The lady wore "longer and fuller skirts" as if they were one and the same, whereas we had always dumbly imagined that the shortest skirts were the fullest—they had always appeared to overflow, if you know what we mean.

The gist of the treatise as it applied to the word "sins," seems to indicate that the fashion commentators suspected that women who prefer long skirts are attracted by the realization that their nether limbs (if you know what we mean) are not attractive enough to be displayed. Thus, the woman who insists on short dresses seems to have been driven to an admission that her legs are more beautiful than her face (if you can understand the point).

But we still wonder if it is a sin to conceal a defect!

Crime a Disease?

WE GET SORT of fed up sometimes by the effervescent zeal of fanatics to soften the truth about crime. There used to be a law—it was made in the beginning of time that day when Adam and Eve yielded to the inclination to get wise, and violated the first commandment which had been given them for their own future betterment and protection.

The Creator is said to have told them in blunt words how far not to go, even though He did leave them with a small capacity to do the thing He told them not to do. If you are up on the Bible, you will understand that it was the first transgression in the Garden which set our teeth on edge. We've been paying all these days (until within the last generation within which crime has changed its color) for the transgression of the law thus announced. If we had Adam and Eve here at this moment we'd give them all ancestors a currying-down for the incontinence they thereby brought upon us—having to work every day and frequently till the wee small hours of night to make a go of things.

But recent reformers have gone the whole way in disregard of the law of nature. By man-made law it has been set up that men and women don't have to sweat any more to eat; a charitable government takes rations off the table of those who do sweat and spreads those rations and clothes and drinks—watch that word—before those who have dared to evade the original requirement to sweat.

And now the sub-sisters have decided that a man who deliberately guzzles liquor till he falls to the ground—who spends his substance in riotous drinking and wastefulness—is neither a fool or a knave. (We personally think he has both of these elements in his make-up.) They now tell us that drunkenness is a disease, and they were over the wasted and take honest, sober people's hard-earned substance—cash laid up for the day when the shades have fallen and man can work no more—and cuddle the offender into a soft bunk in a tax-operated institution and weep about his weakness, calling it a disease!

Disease, my eye! What sort of foolish crime is there that may not thus be classed as a disease! When nature made man, it placed inside of each man—either an intellect or an instinct—for his guidance. It told him by these instincts and nerves, that if he sat down on a hot stove, he'd get the seat of his pants burnt. It made that law to discourage men from sitting on hot stoves, and for their own good and protection. Reformers of the present day have decided that the law is too drastic, so they grab other men and women who have stood upright, fold them over and shove them in between the man and the hot stove—and the erring individual is wrenched from an invalid while the men who wiggles between him and the fire are condemned for not sitting still.

If drunkenness is a disease, then what crime is not?

Swapping Time

THESE NEW METERS which have been introduced for the double purpose of driving some persons from over-time parking and to give others a chance at nominal cost, have developed interesting phases of human nature, we'll say.

Few persons willingly waste that for which they have paid cash. Thus, there are persons who are reluctant to move out of a parking space before the expiration of the time paid for. We have seen people sitting in their cars waiting for the red to come for a signal that it is moving time. They want to move out of a space and leave twelve, twenty-four or thirty-six minutes of time for which they have paid?

Recently we told in this column of a thrifty lady who hurried into a space at which the previous occupant had left thirty-six minutes and who thereby saved three cents. She stated the full thirty-six minutes, we suspect, because that time was gift from a stranger. Why waste anything?

A young merchant tells us that in Savannah his father had brief business at a bank, parked, dropped a nickel, finished his business in the bank, and came out fifty minutes to spare. He sat in his car two minutes while contemplating the economy of the situation. Then he decided to move out, and come back in the hope that the space would still be open. He rode a few minutes; came back and found the space occupied by another, but nearby was a vacant space into which he moved—and lo, that meter showed exactly forty-eight minutes that someone other person had left. The father was elated that he had gained time by moving around.

One lady whose place of business is in the center of our city—who observes what she sees—tells us that she knows women (and men) who burn 10 cents in gas riding in search of an open parking space with a meter's worth of unused time. How's that for thrift!

NEW CASTLE CLUB
The New Castle Club met at the community house August 26. In the absence of Miss Spears, the president presided. We discussed the business of the club, the new painting and other fancy work to be displayed this fall. The club gave Mrs. Jack Wynn, formerly Miss Mary Ann Strickland, a wedding gift. She has been very co-operative in our club. Hostesses Mrs. Leon Anderson and Mrs. Virgil Anderson, served pimiento and cheese sandwiches, assorted crackers and Coca-Cola.

SOMETHING NEW IS PLANNED FOR FLAT ROCK

Mr. Slim Chance is going to add an eating place to his filling station and he will call it "Slim's end." He wants to run an up-to-date end, and instead of serving only hot dogs and sody pop, he will sell a square meal consisting of sizzling steaks, hot rolls, coffee, french fries and all side dishes. Mr. Chance will not employ a dishwasher to clean his end, he will knock out the partition in the rear of his present lunch-room and extend his end about 20 feet to the big pine tree, later on, he will build himself a nice barbecue fire-place and serve roast beef sand-wiches and hamburgers.

Mr. Chance will be insisted by his wife and 2 daughters in running his new end, and with their hobby of working hard they will no doubt make it a huge success. He expects to buy everything at hole sale and sell at retail. He will not run a cheap end like some of those on the highway ansoforth.

This new service will not interfere with his gas and oil sales, other groceries, beer and other wares too tedious to mention. Mr. Chance will serve civic clubs and parties by engagement, and will at all times have something to eat on very short notice. He will lay his own eggs and chickens; he already has a henhouse and a poultry farm nearby.

SOMEBODY'S PLAYING DIRTY POLITICS

A big investigation was being held last week about the reason why Mayor Hobbs got the contract for the new hotel, ever since the creek in flat rock to have spike driver of cedar lake, it was stated that spike driver spent lots of money on entertaining the mayor and give him an 2 girls some sody pop and a ham burger on two different occasions.

The town council accused Mr. driver of spending 3,750 on entertainment on behalf of the mayor and some girl friends and thereby influenced him in regards to the contract which cost the town of flat rock nearly 500 more than others would of built the said bridge for.

The so-called trial was held by a committee at the request of the town council so find out if the mayor was unduly influenced by the entertainment and the two girls at the expense of the town of flat rock. The mayor claims that the two girls in question were his wife and her daughter.

madden roomer states that they are trying to smear the present mayor so's they can beat him at the polls a few weeks from now in the race for mayor against two gentlemen who claim to be bizzarr men, first, last, and always, the mayor talked back pretty strong to his accusers and said the public had better keep the names of woman-folks out of the matter. He will no doubt be cleared of any stigma ansoforth.

FLAT ROCK IS IN THE MIDST OF A DRESSING UP
Miss Jennie veeve smith had as her supper and all-night breakfast guests miss saunders from the county seat. Miss mander sent in motion a mighty effort to follow the styles. Miss mander herself wore a tight fitting dress that reached nearly to her cute ankles, and a very low mace designed waist with buss to match.

Miss mander also wore a very large parrotian hat that was as big as a parry-soil and it looked sort like one. It was yankee straw, trimmed with french red roses and english ribbon and was set on the left side of her head and covered one year entirely, but she could listen with the other one o. k.

In Bulloch county, under the supervision of the Extension Services, Sears, Roebuck & Company gave 506 New Hampshire Red chickens to six 4-H club boys and girls, for the purpose of sponsoring 4-H club work, establishing purebred poultry flocks on farms, and teaching the recommended practices in the care and management of poultry.

These chickens were distributed and grown by 4-H club members as follows: W. J. Cone received 102 chicks and raised 101; George Sabin received 101 and raised 99; Cleveland Hall received 104 and raised 99; James Smith received 101 and raised 85; Juanita Florence received 51 and raised 50; Earl D. Florence received 51 and raised 50. Thus it will be seen that 475 of the 506 chicks were raised to maturity. This is 95 percent livability, which is considered fair for beginners.

As to the condition of these chickens at present, they are large healthy pullets, just beginning to lay. Their beauty makes them the families' idols and pets as well as sources of food.

To further the teaching in this enterprise, a poultry show will be given at the Statesboro H. & L. School Thursday afternoon, September 11th, at 2:00 o'clock. At this show the birds will be exhibited, judged and a demonstration and discussion will be conducted by Arthur Gannon, state extension poultry specialist, after which Mrs. Sara P. Miller, manager of Sears, Roebuck order office at Statesboro will award prizes. The public is invited to attend this show.

MRS. LAURA MOORE

Mrs. Laura Moore, born February 10, 1869, died December 30, 1946; married June 22, 1893 to R. Lee Moore, of Statesboro. The record of Mrs. Moore's life speaks for itself and requires no eulogy, yet her friends claim the privilege of giving expression of their love and esteem for her life. All who were privileged to know Mrs. Moore feel a sense of keen personal loss in her passing.

By profession a school teacher, at the time of her marriage she was teaching in Statesboro. Those of us who were once her students treasure with gratitude and affection her instructions in the classroom. Not being blessed with children of her own, she never forgot the orphan children at our Georgia Baptist Home, giving of cattle, poultry and money each year as the Lord prospered her. Believing that boys and girls need education she unselfishly gave of her means to educate many. She also held the highest Christian ideals, uniting with the First Baptist Church of Statesboro early in life, for which she loved and labored, serving for many years as Sunday school teacher, for years a district secretary of Woman's Mission work. She was a faithful member of the church, and a systematic contributor to the church of which she was a member, and to all the causes fostered by the Baptist denomination.

In the passing of Mrs. Moore, Statesboro has lost one of its noblest citizens. She was a woman who cherished and practiced the highest ideals of womanhood. She was a sterling Christian character, rendering to her church a significant service of loyalty that will be felt throughout the years by its members, attending regularly the services of her church until the week before her passing to her heavenly home. Ready to meet the final summons, she could hear her Master say, "Come ye blessed of My Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world, enter thou into the joys of thy Lord."

MRS. J. L. ZETTEROWER, MRS. HARRISON OLLIFF.

MRS. AMERICA BLITCH

Mrs. America Blitch, born December 29th, 1861, in Bulloch county. She was united in marriage in her early teens making Statesboro their home where they spent the rest of their lives as esteemed citizens. A noble spirit never went home to God than when the spirit of Mrs. America Blitch took its flight from Statesboro Hospital October 7, 1946, and she went to occupy the home the Heavenly Father had prepared for her.

It is impossible to estimate the value of a great life like that of Mrs. Blitch, spending her time in the Master's work. Eternity can only tell the full story of the deposit she made in the lives of those she touched during her many years as a Sunday school teacher and as a pioneer president in the W. M. S. of Statesboro. The deep spirituality of her life cannot be eulogized. She loved the Lord and His people. Her faith in prayer was unshaken. Her concern for the unsaved was unceasing. She was a Baptist without apology, holding dear to all that the Bible teaches in spreading the gospel to a lost world. Feasting upon the promises of God, Christian graces in her life were beautifully blended. We felt a deep sense of sorrow and loss when the news of her passing was announced, a feeling of deep gratitude for the heritage of her noble life which will never be lost. Her life's motto was

We have received a shipment of CASE WRA WHEATLAND PLOWS (Tiller Type)

Wingate Be Speaker At West Side Bureau

H. L. Wingate, president of the Georgia Farm Bureau, will be the speaker at the September meeting of the West Side Farm Bureau, L. G. Banks announced to the group at their meeting Tuesday.

Mr. Banks stated that officers from the other community chapters and others are invited to hear Mr. Wingate. He named a committee of John H. Brannen, W. H. Smith Jr. and Fred Blitch to prepare supper for the West Side members and visitors. W. Eugene Deal and Edwin Banks will cook the barbecue. Mr. Brannen announced that supper will be served at 5:30 p. m. Thursday, September 23, prior to the meeting.

Mr. Banks asked Clouse Smith, Herman Nesmith and Lonnie Banks to make plans for estimating the yield of corn per acre on the some twenty entries in the community corn contest. Several outstanding demonstrations are in the community. Some of the top demonstrations are those of C. J. Hendrix, Emil Hollingsworth, Mr. Deal and Mr. Brannen.

4-H Clubsters To Sell Poultry Thursday

The ten 4-H club members that entered the poultry chain will show and sell their 12 "gift" pullets here Thursday, September 11.

The showing of these twelve pullets from each of the ten entries will be held at 10 a. m. with H. W. Bennett, extension poultryman, as the judge. The entries will then be sold to the highest bidder. The clubsters will have a chance to buy them back if they desire. The chicks, 100 per clubster, were given to the group in early March by Sears, Roebuck & Company with the condition that each clubster would enter twelve pullets in the show and then sell these birds so that money could be raised to buy chicks for more clubsters in 1948. Prizes ranging from $4 to $12 are available to the winners in the contest.

The 4-H club boys and girls in this poultry chain in Bulloch county are Carolyn Wilson, Betty Hart, Wynette Blackburn, Sally Fordham, Betty Stephens, Emory Goble, Murray Mobley, Lyonell Griffin, Darnan Mixon and Raymond and Roger Hagin.

Progressive Farmers Try New Feed Crop

New crops will be tried for late winter and early spring feed in the county this year by several livestockmen.

Henry S. Blitch is planting some crimson clover, a crop that has not generally been successful this far down in the state. Mr. Blitch has followed a lime and phosphate program for several years on lots of his land and thinks ample elements from these minerals are now in the soil to grow this Piedmont grazing crop. J. R. Roach, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., business man and Bulloch county farmer, is introducing sweet lupine as a grazing crop. The success of this crop in north Florida appealed to Mr. Roach. He procured several hundred pounds of the seed there and shipped them to the county to plant. W. H. Smith Jr. and V. J. Rowe had also heard of the possibilities of sweet lupine as a grazing crop and have purchased several hundred pounds of seed.

Neither of these crops are recommended very highly for this area yet, but these men will give them a good test during the coming winter for information to others for future use.

FOR SALE—Singer sewing machine, $25; Queen Ann range stove, $50 wood or coal burner, $15; all good condition. MRS. ED MIKELL, 102 West Main street, Statesboro.

MISS STRICKLAND WED TO JACK WYNN

The cool greenness and clean delicacy of green and white furnished the background for the beautiful home wedding of Miss Margaret Strickland, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Strickland, Registrar, to Clarence J. Wynn, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Wynn, Portau, on Saturday evening at eight o'clock at the lovely country place of the bride's parents.

Elder J. Walter Hendricks performed the ceremony and vows were spoken before the open fireplace, where an altar was formed from arrangements of tall white gladioli, magnolia, ferns and candelabra holding tall white tapers.

Miss Strickland was gowning in a long dress of white slipper satin which featured a square neckline, lace-trimmed sleeves and full skirt with a slight train. Her blonde beauty was radiantly enhanced by the finger-tip veil of illusion made into a tiara of seeded pearls and orange blossoms. She wore a white gold watch, bouquet of the groom. The bride's bouquet was of white asters and trailing stephanotis centered with a white orchid.

Miss Beth Stanfield, Glenview, served as maid of honor and Misses Margaret, Bess, Mildred, and Beulah Wynn, sister of the groom, were bridesmaids. They wore apple green marquisette dresses made with a square neckline like the bride's gown and a full skirt with a ruffle attached to the waistline which dipped in the back. In their hair was a small veil and extended across the crown in the back. Their flowers were old-fashioned nosegays made from white asters. Joey Cook, cousin of the bride, acted in a white tux, carried the ring.

Edwin Wynn, brother of the groom, served as best man, while Edgar Wynn and Jim Woods, Savannah, acted as ring bearers.

Mrs. E. L. Barnes, pianist, played the traditional wedding march, and Miss Melrose Kennedy sang, "Through the Years" and "Because." Soft strains of "Perfect Day" were heard during the ceremony.

The bride's mother was gowning in a powder blue crepe with a sweetheart neckline and draped skirt. Miss Wynn was attired in a black gown which featured a lace yoke. Their flowers were pink asters.

The dining table, which was covered with a hand-crocheted cloth, was centered with the three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom reflected in a mirror on a silver stand. Candleholders embossed in green and white like the cake were placed the length of the table, and white satin ribbons were caught in bows at each corner.

After the wedding a reception was held. Members of the wedding party made up the receiving line, and guests were directed by Mrs. H. P. Womack to the dining room, where ice cream and individual cakes were served by Misses Adell Callaway, Ann Smith, Louise Tompkins and Helen Hutchinson, and Mesdames Wayne Culbreth and Spier Downs, all college friends of the bride. Mints were passed by Miss Nancy Dixon.

Mrs. J. R. Bower directed the guests to the bride's book where Mrs. Ralph Dixon, Sylvania, presided. In the gift room were Mesdames Roland Roberts, Emory Mulling and Delray Bilby.

On the terrace an ivy-covered table held a bowl of mint-cream punch which was served by Mrs. H. P. Womack and Annie March. Napkins bearing the names of the bride and groom were used. Miss Jessie Wynn was at the door as the guests departed. Others assisting were Mesdames Bruce Atkins, Delmas Rushing, Hudson Godbee and G. E. Strickland.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Wynn left for a trip to the mountains in Tennessee. The bride consigned to a steel blue gabardine and blackberry punch accessories; her corsage was an orchid.

Upon their return the couple will live in Statesboro.
